

HAULTAIN'S SPEECH

figures were not eastern and a western province. It is true one is higher than the other as he may claim in reference to settlement and a seat of government. The Prince and his members may draw some conclusion from the opinion held by the hon. gentleman two years ago, and it has guided him to this day, and it would be that he will be obstinate enough to neglect it at the present time.

WHAT TWO PROVINCES?

Now the proposition of the amendment is to propose what two provinces there should be. This is a fair question to ask hon. gentlemen who are allied with the Government. The hon. member for St. Albert, Dr. Abbott, is a man who wants to go so long as he can, as the question of two provinces, as far as I know, they have two provinces, north and south, which the Commissioner of Public Works has said will draw into the southern provinces. (Laughter.) What will they be? "Saskatchewan" and "Alberta" are the names which the hon. member for St. Albert has suggested, and are organized together into the southern provinces. (Laughter.) We are the creators—do we with what we have done?

MANDATE OF MANDATE.

The hon. gentleman says we had no mandate. What about the mandate which the Government accepted in the resolutions of 1892 according to his election address which I have just read? He says he has no knowledge of the mandate, and is willing to discuss with the hon. member for St. Albert this important question. Did he always do this for the purpose of not being called a mandatist? (Laughter.)
